That afternoon, Kristy and I were baby-sitting for the Newtons. We arrived at the Newtons' at five o'clock. There were four children in the house, Jamie and his cousins: Rosie, Brenda and Rob. Jamie's parents were going to leave. But three of the four kids were crying. Things went on that way for about five more minutes, but finally Jamie, Brenda and Rosie stopped crying. The parents left. Kristy and I looked at each other, then at the kids. Suddenly the kids began screaming and jumping around, just as they had done when I sat for them before. That time, I had ignored them and after a while they'd quieted down. But Kristy had a different idea.

THREE GOLD DOLLS

One day the Old Bird wanted to learn if the king was clever. So she sent the king three gold dolls. All three dolls looked the same but they were worth different sums of money. The Old Bird asked the king to say which of three dolls was worth the most. The king looked at the dolls for a long time. He thought and thought but he could think of no answer. Now there was a young man in that country. He was very poor and worked for a rich man. But he was clever and everybody knew this. When he heard about the Old Bird's dolls, he told the king's men that he could help the king. The king told his men to bring the young man to the palace. The young man came, looked at the dolls and saw that each of them had a small hole in its ear. Then he took a straw and pushed it into the ear of one doll. The end of the straw showed out of the doll's mouth. The young man took the second doll and pushed the straw into its ear. The end of the straw showed out of the other ear. When the young man pushed the straw into the ear of the third doll, the end of the straw did not show out at all. The young man thought a little about this and then said: "Listen, O king, these dolls are very much like people. The first doll is like a man who tells others everything that you tell him. Such a man is a bad friend. The second doll is like a man that soon forgets what you tell him. Such a man is also a bad friend. But the third doll is like a man who forgets nothing and does not tell others what he must not tell. Such a man is a good friend. So the third doll is worth the most." The king was very happy to hear this clever answer. He sent it together with the dolls to the Old Bird and told his men to give money to the clever young man.*

THE BIRDS, THE ANIMALS AND THE BAT

Many years ago the birds and the animals were enemies and they made war on each other. The bat who was half bird and half animal said he could not take any side. So he did not take part in the fighting and wanted to save his life. He thought: "I'll wait and see who is going to win, then I'll go over to the winners."

When the fighting began, he sat in a tree and watched it with great interest. It seemed that the birds were going to win, and the bat went over to the birds and asked them to take him as a soldier in their army.

"I am a bird," he said, "and in this hour of fighting my place is with you."

The fighting continued and soon the animals showed that they were stronger. The bat went over to the animals. "Look, I am very much like a mouse," he told them. "Let me be one of you."

The animals agreed.

The fighting continued. The birds fought bravely and they had a very clever and brave general. So they were the winners and peace was made.

To save his life, the bat flew away from the animals and from the birds and found a home for himself in a dark place. He never comes out of his home by day because he is afraid to meet a bird or an animal. He flies about at night when all the birds and animals have gone to sleep.

This description gives us information about such film genre as....

- A. thriller
- B. teen film
- C. adventure film
- D. romantic drama
- E. horror film
- F. comedy
- G. western

1. Films of this genre are designed to evoke fright, fear, terror, or horror from viewers. In these films plots, evil forces, events intrude into the everyday world. This film characters include vampires, zombies, monsters, serial killers, and a range of other fear-inspiring characters.

2. This film genre has been a popular one in the history of cinema. These films are usually set in the past or sometimes in a fantasy world, and often involve sword fighting or swashbuckling. There is an element of romanticism attached to the films of this genre. Some popular film concepts include an outlaw figure fighting for justice or battling a tyrant, pirates and a search for a lost city or for hidden treasure.

3. Films of this genre often take place in exotic settings such as foreign cities, deserts, polar regions, or high seas. The heroes in most films are frequently "hard men" accustomed to danger: spies, soldiers, seamen, or pilots. However, they may also be ordinary citizens drawn into danger by accident.

4. This is a film that depends mostly on in-depth character development, interaction, and highly emotional themes. In a good film of this genre, the audience is able to experience what other characters are feeling and identify with someone. Such movies could also be therapeutic by showing how characters cope with their problems.

5. The basic plot of this genre is that two people meet, argue with each other, but despite an attraction obvious to the audience do not become romantically involved because of some internal factor or an external barrier. At some point, after various comic scenes, they are parted for some reason. One partner or the other then realizes that they are perfect for each other, and they meet again, they declare undying love for each other, and disappear off into the sunset together.

6. This is a film genre in which the plot is based upon the special interests of young people, such as coming of age, first love, conflict with parents, teen angst and alienation. Films in this genre are often set in high schools, or contain characters that are of high school age. The genre is popular with young people and young adults, who can better relate to the subject matter than mature audience.
